

MENTAL WELLNESS:

Lucy's Psychiatry

What is the problem?

- Too many people do not know who to turn to when they need help coping with mental health.
- People never actually call hotlines even if they know it could help.
- Physically talking to a stranger is much easier than talking to family or friend.
- People still struggle to talk to therapists.

Mental wellness is a leading problem in the United States (and basically worldwide)..

Inspiration

Charlie Brown's self-conscious personality is a perfect example of struggling with mental health. He tends to overthink problems and (sort of) represents depression.

Project plan

- Multiple stands like Lucy's around SCV
  - Volunteers would talk to customers and each would have a resource card for future contact
- It would be once every week or every other week thing
- Some kind of training (I assume?)
- There would be a website with all our contact information, times, and locations
- IT HAS TO BE CONFIDENTIAL

The Timeline

The Training

Volunteers will meet at GPA to receive training of some sort We will cover confidentiality and how to talk to our clients.

Spread the News

Publicize the organization through social media.. Make sure people become aware of this service.

GPA Post - "Tell Your Truth"

After the TYT event has ended, the stands and volunteers will be available to help anyone who needs emotional support.

Around Santa Clarita

Stands and volunteers will be available around Santa Clarita at specific locations for anyone to talk.

ONE-on-ONE

Individual therapeutic sessions where a student can comfortably confide in their peer counselor. They are confidential.

Participation

Empower each other by participating in local or global events, producing active global citizens who create new friends and reach out.

sNoopY LoVe

Plan fun activities to deepen and strengthen relationships between counselors and peers, as well as just building more friendships.

These are the
hex values for the project.

Lucy's Psychiatry: The Stand

The stand keeps the vibe of the Peanuts universe but has been modified to be safe and casual for people's comfort.

Lucy's Psychiatry: The Stand 2.0

Hinges on the side extensions; fold in and out like doors

The only shortcoming of the prototype stand was the lack of stability in the cardboard composition. The new stand will be made of plywood. All other aspects will not be changed.

Additionally, fairy lights (from which the images will be hung) will be utilized to create a more comfortable atmosphere.

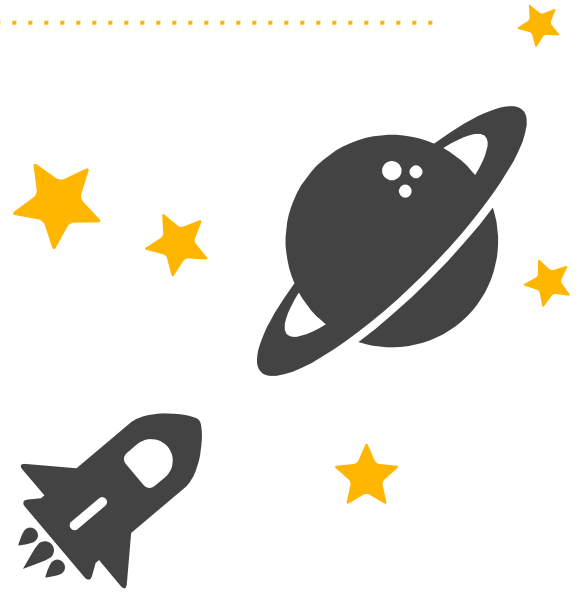

- Materials needed:
- (x1) 36" x 18" Plywood (3/4" thickness)
  - (x2) 36" x 24" Plywood (3/4" thickness)
  - (x2) 18" x 18" Plywood (3/4" thickness)
  - (x1) 36" x 12" Plywood (3/4" thickness)
  - (x2) 3" x 3" x 18" Plywood Block
  - (x6) 3" x 3" (give or take an inch) door hinges
  - (uncertain) 2"-2.5" Nails
  - (x2) 36" Fairy Lights

Extensions:
Images will now hang from fairy lights. The stand needs to be near a power outlet.

Cross-Age Peer Counseling in Schools

The FIX: Cross-Age Peer Counseling

Using students to provide the emotional and mental support for other students.

- Both student counselor and student patient benefit
Growth and learning opportunities as well as more positive interactions
- Financial
Use existing resources
- Simple, Effective, and Empowering

What is cross-age peer counseling?

Problem:

Student body population is too large for counselors to efficiently care for each and every student they are responsible for. Peer counseling can solve that, in addition to empowering students.

With an increase in rates of suicide and school violence, it is so important now, than ever, to care for the mental and emotional health of students.

Similar to peer tutoring, cross-age peer counseling is another opportunity for students to work with and empower each other in social and emotional areas. Cross-age is in reference to the age gap between the older student counselor and younger student patient.

Ex: Junior or senior high school student would be the peer counselor of a freshman student

SOLVENCY: Provide more available, efficient, and various counseling services to students without hindering the work of counselors
